

CJC recognised in The Legal 500

CJC would like to express its sincere thanks to our clients for the positive feedback contributing to its recognition as a Tier 3 law firm in the Shipping in London category of the Legal 500 directory and retaining its Tier 2 status in Singapore. Legal 500 bases its assessments on law firms' clientele, client testimonials and work highlights.

CJC is pleased to continue to be ranked as a Tier 3 law firm in the Shipping in London category of the 2022 UK Legal 500. This is recognition of our abiding collective efforts to deliver as a full-service shipping practice acting for shipowners, financiers, shipyards and charterers. It is all the more rewarding because client feedback provides a key component in the classification process.

The following specific comments have been provided by CJC's clients to the Legal 500 directory and have been published without attribution.

According to one: "CJC has a number of excellent practitioners and offers solid all-round capabilities for any sort of maritime issue; always at good value. They compare very favourably with 'bigger name' outfits. They are more often than not my 'go-to' firm for any complex disputes."

Another adds: "Every individual is committed and keen. The team is relatively youthful, and hugely energetic. They are excellent strategic thinkers, hardworking, fizzing with ideas, and always willing to embrace a new idea if it will improve the client experience."

In addition to representing its clients in litigation, CJC also advises on a wide ambit of non-contentious shipping matters, such as those relating to shipbuilding and ship transactions. As a third client comments: "Campbell Johnston Clark has very experienced lawyers who are specialists in their field."

In Singapore, CJC is recognised in the latest Legal 500 publication as having "a team of experienced partners, covering both wet and dry shipping" with recognised leaders in the field.

Thanks to all our clients who gave Campbell Johnston Clark such excellent feedback. Meanwhile, our transactional team merits a separate 'shout out', after it was recognised separately by the Legal 500 panel as being part of a "Firm to Watch" in its Transport Finance & Leasing category.
